

Supaflor floor finishes for Golden Macadamias

Verni-Speciality Construction Products undertook the complete restoration of the floors at Golden Macadamias, who are 'nuts about quality.' The previous floor continuously needed to be painted due to the type of environment; Verni had the perfect solution.

1. Before

2. After

Verni, specialist manufacturer and applicators of various resin flooring systems, commenced with the project in 2013. The existing coating was removed by mechanically scabbling to provide a good bonding surface, the damaged concrete was repaired with their rapid hardening concrete repair systems, and the cracked concrete was filled with their epoxy crack filler. Supaflor PU SL screed was applied at a thickness of 4mm to the majority of the plant floor which is exposed to high traffic and oil spillages. The Supaflor PU SL Screed is resistant to almost all chemicals, and has excellent wear and impact resistance, offering a non-slip and easy to clean system. The areas that are exposed to higher temperatures were protected with Supaflor PU HD at a thickness of 9mm. Verni's technical engineers recommended a coved skirting to all wall and floor interfaces which would meet the requirements of health regulations (HACCP).

Golden Macadamias natural colour choice was red, which best suited their brand.

The biggest challenge during the project was whether or not to remove the plant machinery prior to commencing. Verni could apply the Supaflor PU SL screed right up to the bases of the equipment if need be, as removing the machinery would have a cost implication for the client. However, after much consideration it was decided by the client that it would be best to give Verni a 'blank canvas' to work with, and the machinery was removed.

Once the project was completed, the machinery was moved back into place and chemically anchored in order to prevent any damage to new Supaflor PU screeds.

In addition to the mentioned works, Verni while on site were requested to do the staff ablutions in order to maintain the high standard of hygiene at the plant at Golden Macadamias.

The management of Golden Macadamias are overwhelmed by the service received from Verni and ecstatic with the quality and performance of Verni's Supaflor flooring range.

"We have since completed an additional packaging line at Golden Macadamias this year, thus totalling a value of approximately R1 million! With these floor finishes, Golden Macadamias have really set the bar high for the industry!" concludes Vernon Botha, director of Verni.
